ANU College of Law

The report was compiled using data from the 2015 Australian Graduate Survey (AGS) which captures information on the destination of ANU College of Law graduates at The Australian National University approximately four months after they have completed their program. This report can be used to give an indication of the numerous directions that graduates take after completing their degree. While the AGS obtains information about the start of graduates' career paths, it does not provide information on where they eventually find themselves in terms of life-long professions and objectives. Please note that completion of the AGS is voluntary and the statistics do not represent the entire body of students graduating for that year.

- A total of 650 graduates from the ANU College of Law (including combined programs) participated in the survey.
- 76% of undergraduate who were available for full-time work, were working full-time at the time of the survey.
- 90% of students completing postgraduate coursework, who were available for full-timework, were working full-time at the time of the survey.
- The overwhelming majority (94%) of full-time employed graduates were employed in Australia. Of those employed overseas, the greatest proportions were working in the United Kingdom and Hong Kong.
- Within 4 months after graduation, forty-eight percent (48%) reported being employed in the private sector versus the public sector (43%) or not-for-profit (7%) sectors.
- Of those graduates working full-time, 75% were not seeking a new role, indicating good levels of job satisfaction.
- The average gross annual Australian starting salary for graduates of the college was $59,907 for undergraduates (n=13), $62,637 for postgraduate coursework (n=95).
'n' indicates the number of responses
- Graduates relied on a broad range of methods to locate their employment including internet advertisement (25%), family or friends (16%).
- 28% of students completing undergraduate programs, were enrolled in further full-time study.
